Spelling Strategies

Learning a few simple strategies can help students become better spellers. Teach the strategies one at a time using appropriate words from the spelling lists. List each strategy on a chart as it is introduced. Post the chart as a helpful reminder to students. Review the strategies frequently to help students internalize them.

Say a word correctly.	Don't leave out or mispronounce sounds. Write the sounds in the correct order.
Think about what the word looks like.	Think about how the spelling pattern looks. Write it, look at it, decide if it looks correct.
Look for small words in spelling words.	spin - pin, in cupcake - cup, cake
Look at syllables in spelling words.	Spell the word one syllable at a time. remember - re•mem•ber
Use rhyming words to help spell a word.	If you can spell book, you can spell look.
Use rules for adding endings.	Drop silent e before adding suffix. Double the final consonant before adding suffix. Change the final y to i and add es.
Use knowledge of suffixes and prefixes.	Think about what the word looks like without the prefix or suffix. Write the word and then add the prefix or suffix.
Think about what the word means.	Some words sound the same, but have different meanings and are spelled in different ways. Match the spelling with its meaning.
Use outside help.	Use words posted around the classroom. Use a dictionary. Ask someone for help.

Imagine this seen -- the princpal in freshly pressed close running threw a fountain of tomato juice. It all happened an our before lunch yesterday.

The kitchen had been closed so that too cruise of electricians could replace some wiring in the cafeteria. Mr. Grant, the principal, was on his way to check their work. Just as he entered the kitchen, the electric can opener buzzed into action. A huge can of tomato juice that had been left on the can opener became the victim of Newton's principel of action and reaction. The can opener went down, the can was opened, and just as the principal walked in, it flew off the countertop, drenching him in juice.

Much mopping and ten damp towels later, Mr. Grant was ready to walk back to his office. And what about the electricians? Their working on a crews ship heading toward Alaska. I wonder if the ship has a can opener?

When I reached the ranger station, he was talkin about which campsites were still available for camping tonite. I asked about a campsite near the lake. His anser was to nod his head and point to a trail going up to the left.

I climmed down a slope to the lake. I found a level spot to set up camp. I hung my supplies on a tree limm using a special not my scout leader had taught me. I pitched my tent, prepared doe for biscuits, and started a fire.

While I waited for the griddle to get hot, I sat on a log and tried to scrach a desine on a chunk of wood. What a peaceful way to spend an afternoon. Then everything started to go wrawing. The sky opened up and rain slammed down to the ground! I crawled into the tent quickly, but I looked like I had restled a bear in a mud puddle. I hoped the downpour would be over soon. I was hungry for those biscuits!
